This chapter explains how to get your B.C. driver’s licence. It also explains the penalties if you break the driving rules and regulations. Read this chapter to learn about the responsibilities involved in getting and keeping your licence.

Learning to drive

To learn to drive, you’ll need someone to teach you and supervise your driving practice.

This is why one of the restrictions on a learner’s licence, as you’ll find later in this chapter, is the requirement to have a qualified supervisor in the vehicle with you.

Choosing your supervisor

You need to choose a supervisor who will be serious about helping you become a skilled, safe driver.

Here are some things to consider when choosing your supervisor:

• Is this person ready to commit the time needed to practise?
• Is this person a skilled, experienced driver? Your supervisor must have a valid Class 5 licence and meet supervisor age requirements shown later in this chapter.
• Will this person provide a good example of safe driving? Can he or she be relied on not to drive while impaired by alcohol or drugs, speed or take other risks on the road?
• Is this person able to get information and ideas across clearly?
• Does he or she have the patience to guide you effectively?

Professional training

Professional training can help you learn faster and avoid developing bad driving habits.

You’ll find information to help you choose a driving school later in this chapter.
The Graduated Licensing Program

B.C.’s Graduated Licensing Program (GLP) is designed to reduce the number of crashes among new drivers of any age. Under GLP, new drivers gain experience gradually, under conditions that expose them to less risk. To get your full-privilege Class 5 licence, you’ll go through several steps.

GLP allows you to take on more driving responsibilities as you gain experience.
Getting your learner’s licence (Class 7L)

The first licence new drivers receive is a learner’s licence. You must be at least 16 years old to apply for your learner’s licence. You’ll also need to pass the knowledge test and pass a vision and medical screening. This licence is valid for two years. You will need to re-take the knowledge test if you want to renew it.

To apply, go to your nearest driver licensing office. If you pass the tests, you’ll be issued a Class 7L licence, an L (Learner) sign and a copy of Tuning up for drivers.

When you go to the driver licensing office

When you go to the driver licensing office to get your learner’s licence, you should take:

- primary and secondary identification — see the Identification (ID) section on the inside back cover for more information.
- a custodial parent or legal guardian if you’re under 19. (You may be able to apply to bypass this requirement if you are not living with a parent or legal guardian.)
- the fees for the knowledge test and Class 7L licence
- glasses or contact lenses if you need them to drive.

The knowledge test

The knowledge test has 50 multiple-choice questions that measure how well you know the information in this guide. The test is taken at any of our driver licensing locations and can usually be done at a computer terminal. The test is not an open book test, and cellphones and electronic devices aren’t allowed while taking it. In some parts of the province, it’s only offered as a written test. The test is available in English, French, Arabic, Cantonese, Croatian, Farsi, Mandarin, Punjabi, Russian, Spanish and Vietnamese.

Make sure you arrive at the office at least one hour before closing to take your knowledge test. If you have a disability that will make it difficult for you to take the test, phone the licensing office ahead of time to let them know.

Take the practice test online

You can take a practice knowledge test or download our free app on icbc.com. The Learn to drive smart guide is also available for downloading as part of the app.
Vision and medical screening

Your vision will be checked to make sure you can see enough to drive safely. You’ll be tested for colour vision, depth perception, field of vision, diplopia (double vision) and sharpness of vision. You may need to have further vision testing by an optometrist or ophthalmologist if you don’t pass the vision screening. If you need to wear glasses or contact lenses when you drive, this restriction will be shown on your licence.

You will also be asked about your medical condition. If there is any question about your physical ability to drive, or if you have a progressive medical condition, you may need to go to a doctor for a medical examination. Your doctor’s report will be sent to RoadSafetyBC. The final decision whether to issue you a driver’s licence will be made there.

Learner stage driving restrictions

While you are driving with a learner’s licence, you must follow these restrictions:

- Qualified supervisor — a qualified supervisor must sit beside you when you are driving. Your supervisor must be 25 or older and hold a valid Class 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 licence.

- Zero blood alcohol content — you must not drive after consuming any amount of alcohol.

- No hand-held or hands-free electronic devices — you must not use hand-held or hands-free communication devices (for example, cellphones, music or portable gaming devices, GPS systems) while driving.

- L sign — you must display the official L (Learner) sign in your back windshield or on the rear of your vehicle when you are driving. It must be visible to drivers behind you. We’ll give you this sign when you get your learner’s licence.

- Passenger limit — only two passengers may be in the vehicle with you: your supervisor and one additional passenger.

- Restricted driving hours — you may drive only between 5 a.m. and midnight.

Getting your novice licence (Class 7)

To get your novice licence, you must pass the Class 7 road test. This test assesses whether you are competent to drive on your own. By the time you take the Class 7 road test, you will have had your learner’s licence for at least one year. You will have spent many hours practising with a supervisor. You’ll be given a driver experience log when you get your learner’s licence — use it to register your practice hours. You should get at least 60 hours of practice. This helps develop the skills and experience you need to pass the road test and build the foundation for lifelong safe driving.
The Class 7 road test

The Class 7 road test is conducted by a driver examiner who marks your ability to drive in a safe, smooth and controlled manner. The road test takes about 45 minutes. You must provide a safe vehicle to use for your road test. Pets or passengers, other than the examiner or other authorized people, are not allowed during your road test. You can prepare for the test by reviewing this guide and using the Tuning up for drivers guide to help you practise.

Here are some things you can expect during your road test.

Before you start — the examiner checks that you know where the controls are, use your seatbelt, and adjust the seat, mirrors and head restraints for maximum safety, see chapter 2, Pre-trip check.

Using your skills — the Class 7 road test assesses your ability to perform the see-think-do skills: observation, hazard perception, speed control, space margins, steering and communication. For more information about these skills, see chapter 5, see-think-do.

Doing the manoeuvres — your Class 7 road test may include:

- intersection manoeuvres (driving through, turning right, turning left)
- backing up
- entering traffic
- pulling over and stopping on the side of the road
- changing lanes
- parking on a hill
- starting on a hill
- angle parking
- parallel parking
- stall parking (driving forward and backing up)
- two- and three-point turns
- merging on and off a highway
- general driving (for example, driving straight, driving on hills and curves).

Getting feedback — at the end of the test, the examiner will discuss your results with you. Make sure you ask questions if you don’t understand something. Whether you have passed or failed, you can learn how to improve your driving. You may take the test again in 14 days if you don’t pass.
Novice stage driving restrictions

When you are driving with a novice licence, you may drive unsupervised with the following restrictions:

- Zero blood alcohol content — you must not drive after consuming any amount of alcohol.
- No hand-held or hands-free electronic devices — you must not use hand-held or hands-free communication devices (for example, cellphones, music or portable gaming devices, GPS systems) while driving.
- N sign — you must display the official N (Novice) sign in your back windshield or on the rear of your vehicle when driving. It must be visible to drivers behind you. You’ll receive this sign when you get your Class 7 licence.
- Passenger limit — only one passenger may be in the vehicle with you unless:
  a) the passengers are your immediate family (“Immediate Family” means your parents, children, spouse, brothers, sisters and grandparents, including step and foster relationships), or
  b) if you are accompanied by a supervisor sitting beside you who is age 25 or older holding a valid Class 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 licence, or
  c) if you are taking driver training and are supervised by a licensed driver training instructor.

Graduated Licensing Program (GLP) penalties

When you’re a new driver, your record is closely monitored by the Superintendent of Motor Vehicles. If you get a traffic violation ticket or other driving offence, you could receive a warning letter, probation or prohibition from driving. In addition to the regular driving penalties, there are extra penalties for GLP drivers.

- You may be fined and have penalty points recorded on your driving record if you break any one of the learner or novice stage driving restrictions.
- You may also be fined and have penalty points recorded on your driving record for speeding or other traffic violations.
- More points or more serious offences could result in a prohibition from driving for one month to a year or more.
- If you violate the blood alcohol restriction, or operate a vehicle while under the influence of drugs, you may receive an immediate roadside suspension or prohibition. These will be recorded on your driving record and you may face a further prohibition as a result.
• If you receive a driving prohibition in your learner stage, your learner stage will be extended, because you will not accumulate any more time toward graduating to the novice stage until you have served your prohibition and have your licence reinstated.

• If you receive a driving prohibition in your novice stage, you’ll lose any time you have accumulated toward graduating out of GLP. When your licence has been reinstated following the prohibition, you will have to accumulate an additional 24 consecutive prohibition-free months to be eligible to graduate from GLP.

Getting your Class 5 licence

After you have held your novice licence for at least 24 consecutive months without a driving prohibition, you may take the Class 5 road test. Passing this test means you exit the Graduated Licensing Program and get your full-privilege driver’s licence.

The Class 5 road test

The Class 5 road test requires a higher level of driving skill than the Class 7 road test. It gives you the chance to show that you are now a safe, experienced driver with excellent vehicle control skills. The road test takes about one hour. You must provide a safe vehicle to use for your road test. Pets or passengers, other than the examiner or other authorized people, are not permitted during your road test.

Using your skills — the Class 5 test includes the same skills as the Class 7 test: observation, hazard perception, speed control, space margins, steering and communication. At some points during the test, you’ll be asked to identify the hazards you see while you are driving. You will need to look ahead and use your mirrors to identify all the hazards beside, behind and in front of you.

Driver examiners will mark you on the see-think-do skills you read about in this guide.
Doing the manoeuvres — your Class 5 road test may include:

- intersection manoeuvres (driving through, right turn, left turn)
- lane changes
- entering and exiting a highway or freeway
- three-point turns
- pulling over and stopping
- reverse stall parking
- general driving (for example, driving straight, driving on hills and curves)
- hill park
- parallel park.

Getting feedback — like the Class 7 road test, you have an opportunity to discuss your results with the examiner when you have completed the Class 5 test. Listen and learn. Improving the safety of your driving is important. You may take the test again after seven days if you don’t pass it the first time. You'll have to wait 14 days to take the test a third or subsequent time.

Strategies: getting ready for road tests

Here are some suggestions to help you get ready for your Class 7 and Class 5 road tests:

- Use Tuning up for drivers. It's designed to help you prepare for your road tests. It gives step-by-step instructions for each of the manoeuvres. If you are preparing for the Class 7 road test, work through the Tuning up lessons with your supervisor. You don’t require a supervisor when preparing for the Class 5 road test, but it’s still a good idea to work with a friend or family member.

- Practise hazard perception by naming the hazards out loud. Ask your supervisor to identify any hazards you missed.

- For both the road tests you need to know the signs, signals, rules and regulations. Review the previous chapters of this guide to make sure you are familiar with them.

- Think about taking driving lessons. For more information, see the Choosing a driving school section later in this chapter.

- Take time to get plenty of practice. You should plan on getting at least 60 hours of practice to prepare for your Class 7 road test.
A free copy of Tuning up for drivers is included as part of the new driver toolkit you receive when you get your learner’s licence. You can also download it for free from icbc.com, or buy extra copies at any driver licensing office.

Strategies: ensuring your vehicle is safe

For your road test, you need to provide a safe, reliable vehicle that meets legal requirements. Also, make sure you are familiar with the vehicle.

If your vehicle is unsafe or does not meet requirements, your road test may be cancelled and you will have to reschedule your appointment to a later date. Here is a list of some of the typical reasons that a road test may be cancelled:

1. Brake lights, signal lights or headlights not working, or badly cracked or missing lenses — these lights help you to be seen in traffic, so they need to function properly.

Taking a road test

Booking road tests

- Book online at icbc.com/roadtests or
- Book by phone 604-661-2255 (Metro Vancouver) or 1-888-715-7775 (Toll Free), Mon. – Fri. 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m. – 5 p.m.

When you come for your road test, bring with you:

- primary and secondary identification — see the Identification (ID) section on the inside back cover for more information.
- a safe vehicle
- valid vehicle registration, licence and insurance papers
- your current licence
- the fees for the road test and photo licence
- glasses or contact lenses if you require them to drive.

Strategies: ensuring your vehicle is safe

For your road test, you need to provide a safe, reliable vehicle that meets legal requirements. Also, make sure you are familiar with the vehicle.

If your vehicle is unsafe or does not meet requirements, your road test may be cancelled and you will have to reschedule your appointment to a later date. Here is a list of some of the typical reasons that a road test may be cancelled:

1. Brake lights, signal lights or headlights not working, or badly cracked or missing lenses — these lights help you to be seen in traffic, so they need to function properly.
2. Cracked windshield or illegally tinted windows — it’s important that you and the driver examiner be able to see out the windshield, so a badly cracked windshield just won’t do. Tinted windows may reduce your ability to see other road users — and their ability to make eye contact with you. B.C. law only allows certain windows and only certain portions of the windshield to be tinted and limits the degree of tinting — no aftermarket tinting on the windshield or front side windows is allowed.

3. Horn not working — check to see that it works.

4. Vehicle not properly licensed or insured — B.C.-licensed vehicles must display a valid licence plate and insurance decal. Remember that passenger cars must display two licence plates — one mounted on the front and one on the vehicle. Make sure the insurance permits you to drive the vehicle (if you are renting a vehicle, the rental agreement must name you as a driver).

5. Seatbelts not working or frayed — for your road test, make sure both the driver and passenger seatbelts work properly, and that the seating area is clean.

6. Unsafe tires — make sure the tires are in good condition, have plenty of tread and are properly inflated. Temporary spare tires may not be used on a road test (they are intended only to get the vehicle to the nearest repair shop at reduced speeds so that the proper tire can be repaired or replaced).

7. Airbag or Brake and ABS warning lights stay on — if these lights stay on, they may indicate a serious safety problem.

8. Driver’s side and passenger side doors or windows not operating — for safety reasons both the driver’s side and passenger side doors must open and close properly, from both the inside and the outside. There are times on the road test that you or the driver examiner may need to open a window, so they need to function properly.

9. Faulty exhaust — a leaking exhaust pipe or missing muffler is unsafe and dangerous — it may cause carbon monoxide poisoning. Excessively loud mufflers are illegal and interfere with conducting your road test.
10. Unsafe or illegal vehicle modifications — some modifications are illegal and unsafe:
   - accessory “racing” steering wheels — these wheels are not equipped with airbags, and installing one in a 1998 or later car in place of an airbag-equipped steering wheel not only deprives the driver of airbag protection but can potentially disable all the vehicle’s airbags.
   - excessively raised or lowered vehicles — excessively lowering or raising a vehicle can affect steering and braking control in an emergency.

11. Fuel gauge on “empty” — nobody likes to run out of gas or electricity, and you certainly don’t want this to happen on your road test.

Make sure you know how to use the heater and defroster and windshield wipers — you may need to use them to keep the windows clear while on your road test.

Also, remember to turn off your cellphone and car radio — you want to concentrate on your driving during the road test.

As well, make sure your vehicle is clean and tidy inside, and that lights and windows are clean.

Loose objects inside can be dangerous if you have to stop suddenly, so these should be removed or stored in the trunk.

Choosing a driving school

You can prepare for the Class 7 or Class 5 road test by taking lessons from a professional driving instructor. There are good reasons to take driving lessons. Learning to drive skillfully and safely is not easy. Qualified instructors are often more effective than family members or friends at training new drivers.

If you are preparing for the Class 5 road test, a professional driving instructor can help you brush up on your skills.

When choosing a driving school, here are some questions you may want to ask:

- Is your school licensed? Are the instructors licensed? All driving schools and instructors must be licensed by ICBC. Ask to see the licences.

- Can I see a written policy of your rates (including all charges), hours, number of people in a training vehicle and refunds? The school must provide this to you.
Does your school offer an ICBC-approved driver education course?

Can I see a course outline?

Do you use various methods of instruction (for example, one-on-one, classroom groups, etc.)?

How experienced are your instructors? How much recent training have they had?

How do you involve parents/guardians or adult supervisors in new-drivers education?

How do you keep your practice cars safe and well maintained?

Do you have a vehicle with standard transmission if I want to learn how to drive one?

What do I need to know before starting your course (i.e., type of clothing, equipment, gear, etc.)?

Finally, ask other people: Have you heard good things about the school?

ICBC-approved driver education courses

Some driver training schools offer ICBC-approved courses for new drivers in B.C.’s Graduated Licensing Program. These schools display a valid Driving School Licence from ICBC with a GLP designation. Approved schools are also listed on ICBC’s Driver Training and Assessment Standards website dtcbc.com.

ICBC-approved GLP Class 7 driver courses feature at least 32 hours of instruction and include classroom and on-road instruction.

When you successfully complete an approved GLP course while in a GLP learner stage, you’re eligible for a six-month reduction in the novice stage, as long as you have no violations, prohibitions or at-fault crashes during the first 18 months of your novice stage.

High school students successfully completing an approved GLP course can receive two Grade 11 credits by taking their Declaration of Completion to their secondary school administration office.

New B.C. residents

You may use your valid driver’s licence from another province, state or country for the first 90 days you live in B.C. After this time, you must have a B.C. driver’s licence to drive in B.C. You’ll need to turn in your old licence and pass the applicable driver tests.

You’ll need to provide proof that you are licenced in another jurisdiction. In most cases, your previous driver’s licence is chapter 9 — your licence

enough. The class of licence you held, combined with your driving experience, will be used to decide which class of B.C. licence you will be assigned and what tests you may need to take.

It’s best to apply for your B.C. driver’s licence well within 90 days of moving to British Columbia. New residents who hold a Canadian, American, Australian, Austrian, Dutch, French, German, Japanese, New Zealand, South Korean, Swiss or United Kingdom licence can usually complete their licence exchange the same day. For more information, check with a driver licensing office.

Re-examinations

Each year in B.C., almost 3,000 people are notified by RoadSafetyBC to come in for a re-examination. The most common reasons for a re-examination are:

- a driver’s medical report indicating a health problem
- a police report indicating that the driver was unsure of how to handle a common driving situation.

If the re-examination is for vision screening and a signs and signals test only, you don’t need an appointment. If it also includes a road test, you’ll need to call your local driver licensing office within 30 days of receiving your notice to book a road test appointment. When you go for your test, you need to take primary and secondary identification (see the Identification (ID) section on the inside back cover) and glasses or contact lenses if you need them for driving. It’s also a good idea to take a licensed driver with you in case you don’t pass the test.

Prepare for your re-examination by reviewing this guide. Consider taking a refresher course from a driving school to help you brush up your skills. You may also want to get a copy of Tuning up for drivers from the driver licensing office. This will help you practise your driving.

Enhanced driver’s licence

B.C. now offers an enhanced driver’s licence (EDL) that allows you to cross the border to the U.S. by land and water without a passport.

It’s available as an enhancement to your photo driver’s licence, or learner’s licence, at an additional cost to the regular licence fee. You need to be a Canadian citizen and resident of B.C. to apply. Visit icbc.com for more information on obtaining an enhanced driver’s licence or ID card.

A passport is still required for air travel to, through and from the United States.

You will need the proper identification (see the Identification (ID) section on the inside back cover), your old licence (unless it is lost), and money for the licence fee. If you have changed your name, you require legal proof of your change of name (for example, a Marriage Certificate or Change of Name Certificate). A new photograph may be taken. |
| Your licence has expired. | If you renew within three years of expiry, ICBC may renew your licence without re-testing. You must settle all fines and debts owed to the B.C. government and to ICBC, and take your expired licence. Make sure you have the proper identification (see the Identification (ID) section on the inside back cover) and money for the licence fee.
If your licence expired more than three years ago, you will need to pass a vision screening, road signs test and road test. |

* Drivers in B.C.’s Graduated Licensing Program are issued Class 7 and/or 8 driver’s licences.

 Limited-speed motorcycles — cannot be operated on a learner’s licence other than a Class 6 or 8 motorcycle learner’s licence. These are motorcycles, mopeds, and motor scooters with:

- an engine displacement of 50 cc or less (or less than 1.5 kW of power if other than a piston engine),
- a transmission that doesn’t require shifting or a clutch,
- a maximum speed of 70 km/h,
- wheels that are at least 254 mm (10 in) in diameter, and
- a dry weight of 95 kg or less.

 Air brakes

To operate vehicles equipped with air brakes on a highway (other than a vehicle defined as a construction vehicle), you must have a B.C. driver’s licence with an air brake endorsement (code 15).

Restrictions, conditions and endorsements

Depending on your fitness and ability, your licence may include certain restrictions, conditions or endorsements. For example, you may be required to wear corrective lenses (eyeglasses or contact lenses) while driving.

Recreational trailers

For information on towing recreational trailers and getting a house trailer endorsement, see Towing a recreational trailer on icbc.com.

Responsibilities and penalties

As a licence-holder, you have legal responsibilities. Having a B.C. driver’s licence is a privilege — not a right. You must insure your vehicle and drive safely to protect you and other road users.

Driver’s licence

Do:

- always carry your licence when driving
- keep your licence current. Notify ICBC if you change your name or address.
Don’t:

• lend your licence to anyone else
• ever use a licence that isn’t valid
• alter your licence in any way.

Identity theft and driver licence fraud

Identity theft is one of the fastest-growing crimes in North America. Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal information without your knowledge or consent to commit a crime, such as fraud or theft. Victims of identity theft suffer financial losses, a poor credit rating and a damaged reputation.

A driver’s licence has become a universally accepted and trusted form of identification. If your driver’s licence is stolen, obtained fraudulently, scanned or faked, it can be used as a tool for committing crime.

You can’t entirely control whether you become a victim of identity theft, but you can take steps to minimize your risk.

Protecting you from fraud

There’s a tough penalty to help protect you from people who commit driver’s licence and identification card fraud. People who commit these offences now face fines of between $400 and $20,000, up to six months in prison, or both. Offences covered by the law include:

• Make false or misleading statements, failing to disclose required information, presenting fraudulent records or fraudulently using records to obtain or in attempting to obtain a driver’s licence or identification card.

• Assisting someone to fraudulently obtain or attempt to obtain a driver’s licence or identification card in the ways mentioned above.

• Using or possessing a driver’s licence or identification card that belongs to someone else.

• Allowing someone else to use or possess your driver’s licence or identification card.

• Using or possessing a fictitious or invalid driver’s licence or identification card.

• Altering a driver’s licence or identification card.
Strategies: preventing identity theft and driver licence fraud

- Keep your driver's licence in a secure place on your person. Don’t put your licence in a large pocket or in a large or open purse where it may easily be stolen or fall out. Never leave it in plain view inside your vehicle.

- Store your driver's licence in a safe place when you’re not operating your vehicle. Don’t leave your licence lying around, particularly where strangers can easily see it.

- Don’t share or post pictures of your driver licence on social media (e.g. Facebook or Twitter).

- Make sure to get your driver's licence back immediately after you use it for identification, such as at a store. Don’t leave it as a security deposit — it contains valuable personal information that could be stolen.

- Keep a list of your identification including your driver’s licence and credit cards in a safe place in your home. Include card numbers and phone numbers of the card issuers so that you can notify them if they are lost or stolen.

- If you lose your driver’s licence, report the loss immediately to the police, and also report it to ICBC.

- If you find yourself in the unfortunate position of being a victim of identity theft, in addition to immediately notifying the police, report the incident to PhoneBusters — National Call Centre: 1-888-495-8501 (toll-free).

- Remember, it’s your identity — protect it!

The vehicle licence plate must carry an unexpired decal to show that it is insured. A driver caught without current insurance could face a large fine.

Insuring your vehicle

As a driver, you must ensure that the vehicle you are driving has a valid and current licence plate as well as adequate insurance.

ICBC’s Basic Autoplan coverage ensures every B.C. motorist carries a minimum amount of liability insurance, as well as insurance to help if they are involved in a motor vehicle crash resulting in injury or death. This system protects British Columbians because virtually all B.C. motorists carry at least a minimum amount of insurance.

If you will be driving your parent’s vehicle, your parents may need to adjust their Autoplan insurance. The best thing to do is have your parents discuss their options with an ICBC Autoplan broker.
Outstanding fines and debts

Any outstanding fines or debts you owe to B.C. courts, the provincial government or ICBC must be settled before you can obtain or renew a driver’s licence. These include outstanding liquor fines, tolls and arrears with the British Columbia Family Maintenance Enforcement Program.

Penalties for unsafe driving

If you choose to drive unsafely, you could be fined and prohibited from driving. A prohibition means it is illegal for you to drive for a specific amount of time. And if you are caught driving while you are prohibited, your vehicle could be impounded and you may be subject to fines or a jail term. There is a $250 fee to have your licence reinstated after a prohibition.

In chapter 1, you in the driver’s seat, you were asked to make a number of choices as you drove. Here are some of the driving fines and penalties you might have received if you had made all the wrong choices:

* Fine includes the 15 per cent victim surcharge levy. Your passenger would also have received a $167 fine if he had refused to wear his seatbelt. (If your passenger had been under 16, you would have received the fine.) Most fines may be reduced by $25 if paid within 30 days.

In addition to any fines at the time of your driving offences, you would also receive a driver penalty point bill from ICBC. The bill is based on the number of points you have accumulated during the year, and is issued because people with driving offences are more likely to be involved in a crash. Your 17 points would cost you over $2,500 on your driver penalty point bill.

You will pay a Driver Risk Premium (DRP) if you have:

- one or more Criminal Code driving convictions and/or
- 10-point Motor Vehicle Act convictions, and/or
• one or more excessive speeding convictions, and/or
• two or more roadside suspensions.

The DRP is assessed and calculated based on your offences over a three-year period, and applies to offences that occurred on or after January 1, 2008.

A bad driving record may also result in driver improvement action, including warning letters and driving prohibitions. The threshold for intervention is more stringent for drivers in the Graduated Licensing Program.

Driver Improvement Program

RoadSafetyBC is responsible for the Driver Improvement Program, although ICBC carries out some of the administration.

Any time a driving offence is entered on a record, that record is reviewed under guidelines specified by RoadSafetyBC. Every case is looked at on an individual basis. If the driver continues to drive unsafely and is convicted of more offences:

• the driver may get a warning letter that he or she could lose their driving privileges unless there is improvement.
• the driver could be placed on probation. If there are more driving offences during the probationary period, he or she may be prohibited from driving for a specific period of time.
• if the driver rapidly accumulates offences, a driving prohibition may be initiated without previous warnings.

Penalties for impaired driving

Impaired driving remains one of the major causes of crashes in B.C. It kills more than 100 people each year and thousands more are injured.

You risk a lot by driving impaired. There are penalties under British Columbia’s Motor Vehicle Act and under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Immediate and severe penalties apply if:

• you drive with a certain amount of alcohol or drugs in your system, or
• you refuse to provide a breath sample.

As well, the penalties become more severe for repeat offences.

Note: You may be prohibited if a police officer considers your ability to drive to be affected by alcohol or drugs. You do not have to have a BAC level of over .08 or a BDC of 2 nanograms or more THC.
Criminal Code penalties

If you’re convicted of a Criminal Code driving offence for impaired driving due to alcohol or drugs, you’re looking at some very serious penalties which could include lifetime driving prohibitions and time in jail.

Graduated Licensing Program

Penalties are strict when you are in GLP. If you violate the zero blood alcohol or zero blood drug concentration restriction, you may be subject to various penalties, including an immediate roadside suspension or prohibition, a fine, driver penalty points and/or having your vehicle impounded.

The suspension or prohibition and the penalty points will be recorded on your driving record and may lead to a much longer driving prohibition.

More violations could lead to an even longer prohibition period.

If you are prohibited from driving during the novice stage, you will lose any time you have accumulated toward graduating out of the Graduated Licensing Program. In other words, the clock is reset to zero.

Other costs of impaired driving

Besides the penalties listed above, there are still other costs involved if you are caught driving while impaired:

Money — if you are convicted of impaired driving and you cause a crash, your insurance claim could be denied, including claims for damage that you might cause to your vehicle, or to other people or property. You could be responsible for paying all these costs. As well, your insurance rates will increase and you will receive a driver penalty bill.
Job — an impaired driving conviction can prevent you from holding certain jobs.

Travel — an impaired conviction could create problems for you when travelling to certain countries, including the U.S. and Mexico.

Vehicle impoundment

In addition to impounding vehicles operated by impaired drivers, police can also impound the vehicle you are driving if you are caught committing any of the following offences:

- driving while unlicensed
- driving while suspended or prohibited
- excessive speeding (40 km/h or more over the posted limit)
- street racing or stunt driving
- riding (or allowing a passenger to ride) while improperly seated.

Police can immediately impound the vehicle for seven days, which could escalate to 30 or 60 days for repeat offenders. The owner is then required to pay the vehicle towing and storage fees to get their vehicle back.

It’s important for vehicle owners to understand that they are responsible for making sure that only licensed drivers use their vehicles. For example, if an employer allows a prohibited or unlicensed driver use of a company vehicle, the vehicle could be impounded.

Driving in other locations

Do you like to travel? You need to be aware that rules, signs and traffic controls can change when you cross a border. If you drive in another country, particularly overseas, you may find yourself driving on the left side of the road, going around a complex roundabout or looking at unfamiliar traffic signs. To be a safe driver, think ahead and find out the driving rules of the area you’re travelling to. You may be able to find out some information from guidebooks. The Internet is making it easier to learn about driving in other jurisdictions (see chapter 10, need to know more?).

driving tip

Check to make sure your vehicle insurance will cover you before you leave Canada.
Being a life-long learner

Some people stop learning as soon as they pass their test. You may know people who still drive the same way now as they did when they got their driver’s licence many years ago. This may not be safe because even if their driving skills and knowledge haven’t changed, other things have. Road signs may be different now. Traffic has probably increased. Vehicles have changed — the car they are driving now may be quite different from the one they learned to drive on.

In your driving career, you may take on additional driving challenges such as towing a trailer or driving a large recreational vehicle. You will need to get information to help you know how to drive safely. You may decide to take driving lessons or practise with a driver experienced in this type of driving.

Even if you do not change the type of vehicle you drive, your driving will probably change with age and experience. Research shows that it takes about five years for new drivers to develop into fully experienced drivers who are able to do several driving tasks at once. But after that, people still need to work at keeping their driving skills sharp and up-to-date if they want to be safe on the road.

Strategies: sharpening your skills

Here are some ways to help you keep sharp and up-to-date:

• Use feedback. Ask a friend to watch your driving and give you some suggestions for improvement.

• Know your vehicle. Make sure you know all the controls of any vehicle you drive. The owner’s manual is a good place to start.

• Keep up with the driving guides. Pick up a copy of the current guide to make sure you are up-to-date.

• Take advanced training. You may decide to take a course in defensive driving skills or a refresher course.

• Know yourself. You may experience physical and mental changes that affect your driving. Be aware of your condition. Regular medical checkups will help.
