

Where car insurance is heading.

From September 2019, we're moving to an insurance model that's more driver-based, where crashes follow the driver, not the vehicle. This means driver experience and crash history will play a bigger role in determining premiums, and all drivers will be held more accountable for their driving decisions.

To find out why this is an important move for B.C.,
visit icbc.com/change.

Does anyone else drive your car?

From September 2019, when you renew your insurance, you should consider listing those who drive your car. To do this, simply bring their driver's license number and date of birth to your Autoplan broker. Why? It's part of our move to an insurance model that's more driver-based, where crashes follow the driver, not the vehicle.

If an unlisted driver borrows your car and causes a crash, there may be a one-time financial consequence. If others use your car, talk to your broker about your options to make sure you're protected.

Learn more at icbc.com/change.

